News from the City of Holdingford, Minnesota December 2016

From City Hall, December 2016 Mayors Report

We have changes again...we say good bye to former Maintenance Supervisor Brian Zapzalka, who has turned in his resignation. The city is looking for a replacement Maintenance Employee, ads have been placed and applications are coming in. Current maintenance employee Andy B. is keeping up with our everyday city maintenance, and waste water treatment administrations, we hope to have a permanent partner for him soon.

The council has finished the updating of our city ordinances, you can see the updates soon on the city's website, and paper copies can be seen at city hall during office hours.

The past two years have been quite a learning lesson, in the ways of city government. I thank you for your votes for me to continue as city mayor for the upcoming two years. I continue to hold the safety and wellbeing of the residents of Holdingford foremost in my decisions.

Please be cautious with winter driving conditions, snowy roads makes stopping a bit trickier. In residential areas, be on the lookout for, other traffic and excited young ones, darting into the streets, especially as snow banks get a bit higher. Expect the unexpected!

May your Holidays be filled with family, happy memories, friendship and goodwill.

Respectfully, Sue Marstein, Holdingford Mayor

A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS and Happy New Year!
